Introduction

The Food Safety Authority of Ireland Act 1988, facilitated the establishment of the Food Safety Authority of Ireland (FSAI) to perform the functions assigned to it by this Act. The principle function of the Authority shall be to take all reasonable steps to ensure that:

- (a) food production in the State (whether or not distributed or marketed in the State), and
- (b) food distributed or marketed in the State,
 - meets the highest standards of food safety and hygiene reasonably available. It shall, in particular, take all reasonable steps to ensure that such food complies:
 - 1) with any relevant food legislation in respect of food safety and hygiene standards, or
 - 2) in the absence of any such legislation, with the provisions of generally recognised standards or codes of good practice aimed at ensuring the achievement of high standards of food hygiene and food safety.

The FSAI believes that Guidance Notes have a major role to play in helping both the regulators and the food industry achieve a higher degree of compliance with Regulations and with good practice generally. A good, well prepared, Guidance Note must, if it is to achieve these objectives, provide regulators and industry alike with clear guidance on the application of the relevant law. While a Guidance Note is not, of course, a substitute for the Regulations, the FSAI believes that adherence to it should make compliance easier by providing the basis for a high degree of consistency in application of those Regulations. In other words, the FSAI believes that a good Guidance Note will enhance respect for and compliance with the law and that all parties, especially consumers, will benefit.

We hope this series of Guidance Notes will meet the aims we have set out here and that they will contribute to the development of the high standards we aim to achieve in the food inspection service.

This document should be used as a guide when classifying food samples, submitted for microbiological and/or chemical analysis to the official food control laboratories by authorised officers. Classification of food samples into discrete categories will facilitate the health boards and laboratories in the completion of their returns to the Food Safety Authority of Ireland, under the terms of the service contracts¹. In turn, this will enable the completion of official statistical returns to the European Commission. The segregation of food into discrete categories and will also allow for a more in-depth analysis of these returns. Such information may prove valuable in the design of sampling programmes and trend spotting, with the overall intention of providing optimal data for the protection of the consumer.

Purpose

To standardise the recording of the particulars of a foodstuff submitted for testing by an authorised officer to the official laboratories. The standardised information will enable the correct completion of official statistical returns and clearer identification of food safety issues. The coding system is important to enable electronic capture of information in a database form at a national level.

Classifying and Coding a Food Sample

Samples are classified by EU category as defined by the European Communities². In this classification system, each of the 21 categories are coded using an EU category code (01-21). EU categories and their associated codes are listed in Table 1.

Many products are easy to classify, however this is not always the case. Ambiguities may arise in certain instances. This is particularly the case with multi-component products containing food components from a number of different categories e.g. soft drinks containing yoghurt, products containing eggs and cereal, products containing meat and eggs, products containing fish and eggs, etc.

To clarify these issues a set of criteria has been developed to describe each EU category (see 'Category Criteria') and most products may be categorised using these criteria. The decision tree shown in Figure 1 should be applied if difficulty arises when classifying food samples.

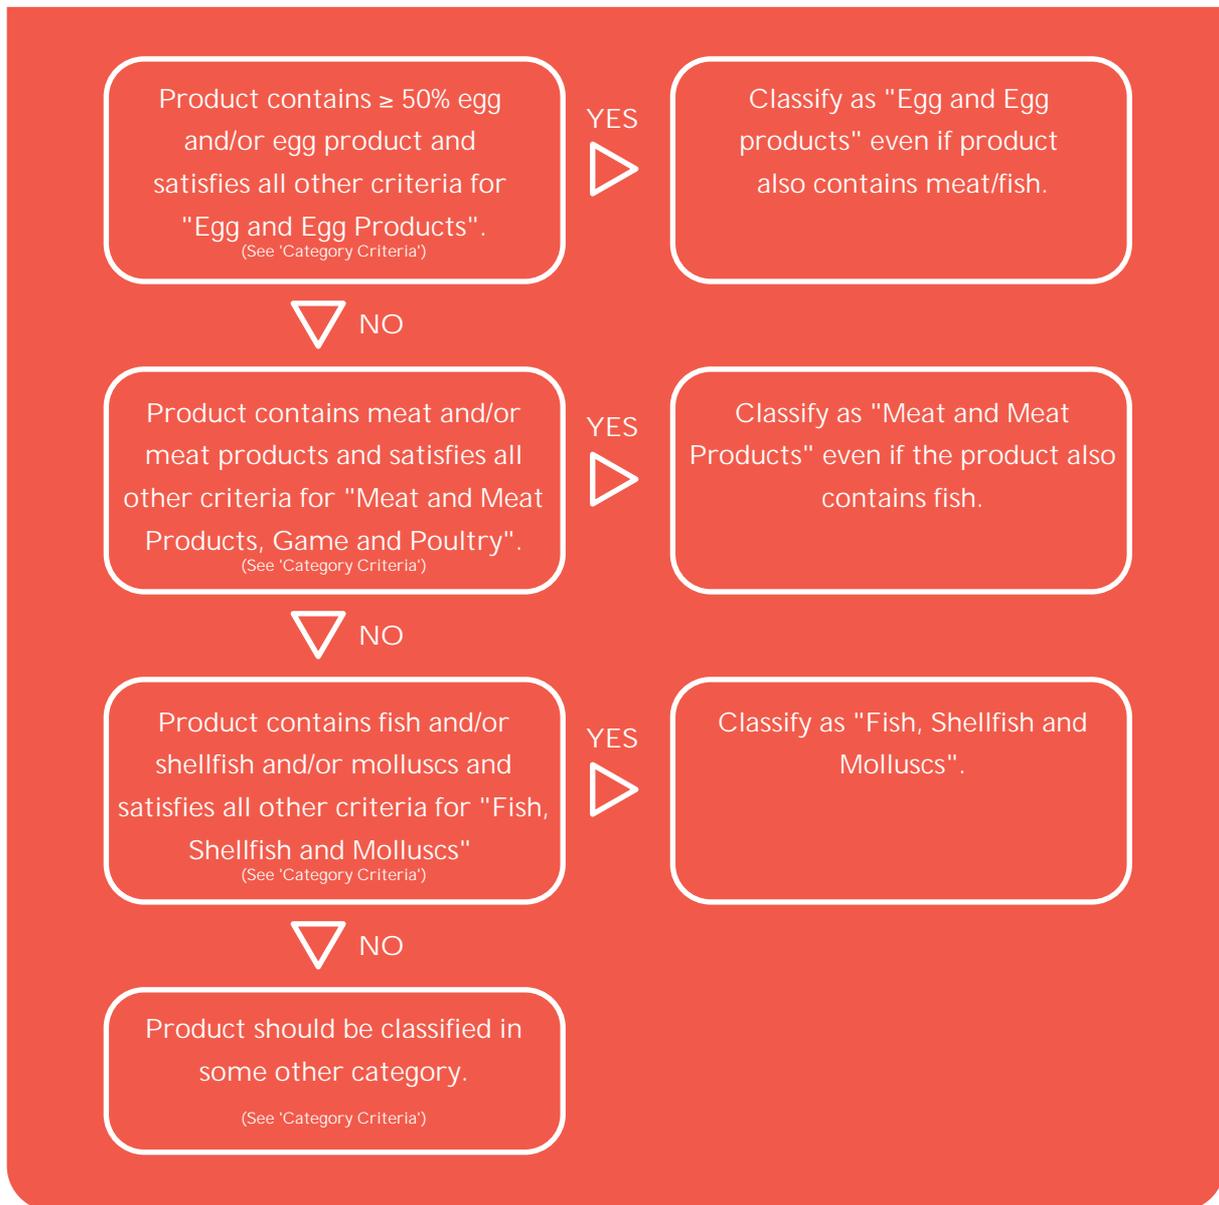

NOTE: There are multi-component products that are not classified using the decision tree. For this reason it is important to read the criteria for each category as detailed in 'Category Criteria', where all exceptions are noted.

For assistance, example products are also listed in Appendix 1.

Category Criteria

- EU Category Code 1 - Dairy Products

This category should be used for food samples that comply with the following definition:

"Milk products namely products exclusively derived from milk, it being accepted that substances necessary for their manufacture may be added provided that these substances are not used to replace in part or in whole any milk constituent, and composite milk products, namely products of which no part replaces or is intended to replace any milk constituent and of which milk or a milk product is an essential part, either in terms of quantity or characterisation of the product".³

Cheese, dairy fats, ice cream, milk and yoghurt should be categorised as Dairy Products.

Important Note:

Products which contain only a minimal amount of milk or milk product would not be regarded as a milk product e.g. milk chocolate and drinks containing yoghurt. However, if the milk or milk product determines the character of the final product and it could not be made without the milk ingredient, then the product is regarded as a milk product e.g. cheeses and pre-prepared drinks made up with milk.

Clarification:

The following inclusions and exclusions are applicable:

Inclusions

- Custard prepared with milk
- Butter and dairy fats
- Drinking chocolate, ovaltine and other drinks prepared with milk.

Exclusions

- Some foods classified in Category 7 (Cereals and Bakery Products), e.g. cream buns, pancakes and crêpes and Category 15 (Desserts and Ices), e.g. pavlova and rice pudding are excluded from this category
- Custard powder is classified in Category 7 (Cereals and Bakery Products)
- Drinking chocolate powder is classified in Category 14 (Cocoa and Cocoa Preparations, Coffee and Tea). Ovaltine powder is classified in Category 10 (Non-alcoholic Beverages)

- EU Category Code 2 - Eggs and Egg Products

This category should be used for food samples that comply with the following definitions:

- Eggs:

"eggs in shells as laid by a hen, duck, goose, turkey, guinea fowl or quail".

- Egg products:

"the content of eggs, as whole egg or only the yolk or only egg albumen or a mixture of yolk and albumen in liquid, frozen or dried form, single or in combination with other foods or drinks to a minimum content of 50% egg product".⁴

Important note:

If a product contains less than 50% egg product, as can be reasonably determined, then it should not be categorised as an egg product.

Clarification:

The following inclusions and exclusions are applicable:

Inclusions

- Prepared dishes such as omelettes
- Egg-fried rice
- Eggs in mayonnaise, commonly referred to as "egg mayonnaise"
- Egg batters.

Exclusions

- Processed products containing eggs, such as desserts and sauces, are not included in this category. As per EU guidelines², these should be included under Category 13 (Ices and Desserts) and Category 6 (Soups, Broths and Sauces), respectively
- Sandwiches are not included in this category. They are classified in Category 17 (Prepared Dishes) irrespective of egg content
- Mayonnaise made from eggs is categorised in Category 6 (Soups, Broths and Sauces)

- EU Category 3 - Meat and Meat Products, Game and Poultry

This category should be used for food samples that comply with the following definitions:

Meat:

"all parts of domestic bovine animals, swine, sheep, goats and solipeds which are suitable for human consumption".⁵

"meat, including meat vacuum-wrapped or wrapped in a controlled atmosphere which has not undergone any treatment other than cold treatment to ensure preservation".⁶

Poultry meat:

"all parts fit for human consumption of the following species: domestic fowl, turkeys, guinea-fowl, ducks and geese".⁷

"meat which is vacuum-wrapped or wrapped in a controlled atmosphere, which has not undergone any preserving process other than chilling or freezing".⁸

Game:

"all parts of domestic rabbit which are fit for human consumption".⁹

"land mammals, or birds, which are not considered as domestic" and not referred to in the definitions of meat and poultry above "but which are farmed as domestic animals".¹⁰

"wild land mammals which are hunted (including wild mammals living within an enclosed area under conditions of freedom similar to those enjoyed by wild game) and wild birds which are not covered by the definitions of meat, poultry meat, rabbit meat and farmed game above."¹¹

Meat Products:

"products prepared from or with meat which has undergone treatment such that the cut surface shows that the product no longer has the characteristics of fresh meat".¹²

"meat to which foodstuffs, seasonings or additives have been added or which has undergone a treatment insufficient to modify the internal structure of the meat and thus to cause the characteristics of the fresh meat to disappear".¹³

"meat which has been minced into fragments or passed through a spiral-screw mincer".¹⁴

For the purposes of this document "meat products" may contain meat from mammals, poultry meat or game meat as defined previously.

Clarification:

The following inclusions and exclusions are applicable:

Inclusions

- All products containing meat (except products appearing in Category 6 (Soups, Broths and Sauces)) and Category 17 (Prepared Dishes) which have not been classified as "Egg and Egg Products". Examples include meat pies, pizza containing meat, cooked meats and cured meat products, sausages, burgers (without a bun), breaded chicken, flash fried meat/meat products that are not fully cooked
- Gelatin.

Exclusions

- Soups and sauces are classified as Category 6
- Sandwiches (including cooked burgers with buns) classified in Category 17 irrespective of meat/meat product content.

- EU Category 4 - Fish, Shellfish and Molluscs

This category should be used for food samples that comply with the following definitions:

Fishery:

"all seawater or freshwater animals or parts thereof, including their roe, excluding aquatic mammals, frogs and aquatic animals covered by other community Acts".¹⁵

"any fishery product which has undergone an operation affecting anatomical wholeness, such as gutting, heading, slicing, filleting, chopping, etc".¹⁶

"any fishery product which has undergone a chemical or physical process such as heating, smoking, salting, dehydration or marinating, etc., of chilled or frozen products, whether or not associated with other foodstuffs, or a combination of these various processes".¹⁷

Clarification:

The following inclusions and exclusions are applicable:

Inclusions

- All products containing fish (except products appearing in Category 6 and Category 17), which have not been classified as "Egg and Egg Products" and which have not been classified as "Meat and Meat Products, Game and Poultry". Examples include fish pies, pizza containing fish, cooked fish, battered fish and fish fingers. Soups and sauces are not included in this category. They are classified in Category 6 (Soups, Broths and Sauces).

Exclusions

- Sandwiches are classified in Category 17 (Prepared Dishes) irrespective of fish/shellfish/mollusc content.

- EU Category 5 - Fats and Oils

Clarification:

The following exclusions are applicable:

Exclusions

- Dairy fats are not included in this category. These should be included under Category 1 (Dairy Products).

- EU Category 6 - Soups, Broths and Sauces

Clarification:

The following inclusions are applicable:

Inclusions

- Mayonnaise, mustard (prepared) and vinegar

- Crackers (savoury or otherwise)
- Shop-bought biscuit, bread, cake and pastry mixes.

- EU Category 8 - Fruit and Vegetables

This category includes all fruit alone or in combination with other fruit, all vegetables alone or in combination with other vegetables, raw or cooked.

Clarification:

The following inclusions and exclusions are applicable:

Inclusions

- Canned, chilled and frozen fruit and vegetables
- Fruit in syrup and vegetables in brine
- Mushrooms
- Seeds.

Exclusions

- Salads, dressed or undressed and mixtures containing both fruit and vegetables should be included in Category 17 (Prepared Dishes)
- Fruit and vegetables in combination with meat, fish, eggs and cereal should be recorded in Category 17 (Prepared Dishes)
- Fresh herbs are not included in this category. They should be included in Category 9 (Herbs and Spices).

- EU Category 9 - Herbs and Spices

Clarification:

The following inclusions and exclusions are applicable:

Inclusions

- Salt and salt substitutes, and condiments such as aromatic preparations.
- Mustard seed.

Exclusions

- Prepared mustard (e.g. Dijon mustard) is included in Category 6 (Soups, Broths and Sauces).

- EU Category 10 - Non-alcoholic Beverages

Clarification:

The following inclusions and exclusions are applicable:

Inclusions

- Bottled Water
- Juice
- Carbonated water and non-carbonated water
- Soya milk and soya milk-based drinks.

Exclusions

- Tea and coffee which are classified in Category 14 (Cocoa and Cocoa Preparations, Coffee and Tea).

- EU Category 11 - Wine

Clarification:

The following inclusions and exclusions are applicable:

Inclusions

- Fortified wine and non-fortified wine.
